1. The first thing we notice from the above table of births at Calbost is that the birth rate was rising in the 19th century and falling in the 20th century.
2. Nevertheless the peak year of births, 1904 with 13 births, was in the 20th century.
3. Only twice in the period of 46 years under consideration in the 19th century did the annual birth rate in Calbost fall below 3 in a year.
4. The total number of births in Calbost in that 46-year period of the 19th century was 268 giving an annual average for that period of nearly 6 births a year.
5. The total number of births in Calbost in the 56-year period of the 20th century was 187, giving an annual average of about 3 ½ births a year, showing a drop in the region of 50%.
6. If we take the 66-year period from 1855 to 1920, just after the First World War, the annual average birth rate was maintained at approximately 6 births a year.
7. It was after 1920 during the economic depression that followed the war that the Calbost birth rate dropped dramatically. In 1921, for the first time, there was only one birth in the village, and in 1931 there were none for the first time.
8. The last birth in Calbost was in 1956, and the last indigenous resident died in 1994 at the age of 91 years.
9. At the beginning of the 21st century, nearly half a century after the last birth in the village there are 62 former residents of Calbost still living outwith the village and only one person living in the village in the year 2000.
10. Of the former Calbost residents still alive there are 33 living in Lewis, 25 of whom are resident elsewhere in Britain and 4 are overseas.
11. As an interesting note while speaking of Calbost births we should mention that local untrained midwives or resident housewives who acted as midwives in the traditional way attended almost all of the births. The writer remembers the last Calbost untrained midwife very well, she was Christy Mackenzie of 4 Calbost who was born in 1853 and lived into her late 80s. Although resident trained midwives came to the district about 1902, the local people apparently preferred the tried and trusted village 'cailleach' (elderly woman) in whom they had full confidence. Mrs Mackenzie continued to attend all the births in the village until at least 1926, including the writer in 1916, normally without the assistance of a doctor. We estimate that Mrs Mackenzie and her predecessor, Mrs Margaret Kennedy of 2 Calbost, each attended scores and scores, if not hundreds of births with only very basic facilities. In 1929 a five-bedded maternity unit was added to Lewis hospital through the generosity of Dr. T.B. Macaulay of Montreal, Canada, himself a Lewis man by descent. Towards the end of the 20th century a large new modern hospital was built in Stornoway with the latest facilities.
